[No. 5186.]

For the prevention and cure of BILIOUS AND MALIGNANT FEVERS is recommended
Hahn's ANTI-BILIOUS PILLS
THIS Medicine has been attended with a degree of success highly grateful to the inventor's feelings in several parts of the West Indies and in the Southern and Middle States, &c.

The testimony of a number of persons can be adduced, who have reason to believe that a timely use of this salutary remedy has, under Providence, preserved their lives when in the most alarming circumstances.

Facts of this conclusive nature speak more in favour of a medicine than commons of pompous eulogy founded on mere assertion.

It is not indeed presumptuously proposed as an infallible cure, but the inventor has every possible reason that can result from extensive experience for believing that a dose of these Pills taken once in every two weeks, during the prevalence of our bilious fevers, will prove an infallible preventive; and further, that in the earlier stages of those diseases their use will very generally succeed in restoring health, and frequently in cases esteemed desperate and beyond the power of common remedies.

The operation of these pills is perfectly mild, so as to be used with safety by persons in every situation and of every age.

They are excellently adapted to carry off superfluous bile and prevent its morbid secretions—to restore and amend the appetite—to produce a free perspiration and thereby prevent colds which are often of fatal consequences. A dose never fails to remove a cold taken on its first appearance: they are celebrated for removing habitual costiveness—sickness at the stomach and severe head-ache—and ought to be taken by all persons on a change of climate.

They have been found remarkably efficacious in preventing and curing disorders attendant on long voyages, and should be procured and carefully preserved for use by every seaman.

Hamilton's Elixir,

A sovereign remedy for colds, obsteinate coughs, asthmas, sore throats, catarrhs, and approaching consumptions.— To persons who have children afflicted with the WHOOPING COUGH, this discovery is of the first magnitude, as it affords immediate relief, checks the progress, and in a short time entirely removes the most cruel disorders to which children are liable. The Elixir is perfectly agreeable, and the dose so small that no difficulty arises in taking it.

Hamilton's Grand Restorative, Is recommended as an invaluable medicine for the speedy relief and permanent cure of Nervous Disorders Violent cramps in Consumptions the stomach and Loss of spirits back Indigestion
Impurity of blood Melancholy Hysterical affection Gout in the stomach Inward weaknesses Pains in the limbs and debility Relaxations, etc.

Hamilton's Essence and Extract of Mustard.

A safe and effectual remedy for acute and chronic rheumatism, gout, rheumatic palsy, lumbago, numbness, white swellings, chilblains, sprains, bruises, pain in the face and neck, etc.

Lee's Ointment for the Itch.
Warranted an infallible remedy at one application, may be used with perfect safety by pregnant women, or on infants week old, not containing a particle of mercury or any dangerous ingredient whatever, and not accompanied with that irritating smart which attends the application of other remedies.

Hahn's true & genuine German Corn Plaster.

An infallible remedy for corns, speedily removing their root and branch, without giving any pain.

The Genuine Persian Lotion, So celebrated among the fashionable rout of Europe, is an invaluable cosmetic, perfectly innocent and safe, free from corrosive and repellent minerals, the basis of other lotions, and of unparalleled efficacy in removing blemishes the face and skin, freckles, pimples, inflammatory redness, scurfs, tetter, ringworms, sunburns, prickly heat, &c.

Hahn's genuine Eye Water, A sovereign remedy for all diseases of the eyes, whether the effect of naturalness or of accident.

Tooth Ache Drops.
The only remedy yet discovered which gives immediate and lasting relief in the most severe instances.

Hahn's Infallible Ague and Fever Drops for the cure of agues, remittent and intermittent fevers.

At the place of sale pamphlets be had gratis, describing cures produced by the above medicines; the number, importance and respectability of the fully justify every article of this

Fan-Sash Making.

METAL FAN-SASHES, of various descriptions, will be made by the subscriber, at his shop, lower end of Duke street. The want of a Metal Fan-Sash Manufacture in Alexandria, has hitherto been severely felt by builders and others, who have been compelled to make use of wood, which is neither elegant nor durable. The various forms into which the metal can be shaped have given it a decided superiority, and the difference in the price is very trifling. The subscriber has been at considerable expence in procuring the necessary preparations, and relies on public enterprise for success in the undertaking.

Gentlemen in the country, by sending the dimensions of their sashes, can have them made at the same price as if in town.

Proposals

FOR Publishing by Subscription, and now ready for the press, a series of historical volumes, which when finished will assume the title of Universal History Americanised;

Or, an historical view of Europe, Asia, Africa and America, from the earliest records to the nineteenth century—with a particular reference to the state of society, literature, religion, and form of government in the United States of America.

BY DAVID RAMSAY, M. D.

"Life is so short and time so valuable, that it were happy for us if all great works were reduced to their quintessence."
Sir William Jones.

PROSPECTUS.

ASIA.
The Asiatic part of this work contains a general view of the antediluvians—of the general deluge—of the re-settlement of the Globe after that great event—of the primitive postdiluvian nations, which were formed in Asia, the cradle of the world. Their various ramifications, revolutions, and of the general course of Empire.

AFRICA.
The African part, contains a concise history of Egypt, Ethiopia, Numidia, Mauritania, Abyssinia, of the Piratical States, and the Hottentots, with a grouped view of its uncivilized settlements.

EUROPE.

The European part, contains the history of Greece and Rome, from their origin to their dissolution—of the various nations which were conquered by them—and of the nations by which the Romans themselves were finally conquered, and of the nations which were formed from the fragments of the Roman Empire, and the various revolutions of the latter, together with a view of the nations which never were subjected to the Romans.

AMERICA.
The American part, contains a general history of the Western continent, under the heads of Free, European, and Aboriginal or unconquered America. The first contains a history of the United States, from their first settlement as English Colonies, till the present time.— The second, of all parts dependant on Europe.—And the third, of all that are still owned by the Aborigines.

It is expected that the whole will be comprised in 10 or 12 octavo volumes, of between four and five hundred pages each—to be printed in Philadelphia, on good paper and fair types, for 85 1-3 per volume, in sheep binding, or 84 1-3 Calf Gilt, to be paid for on delivery.

AUTHORITIES.

This work has been in contemplation upwards of 40 years. The project of it was conceived in 1786, on reading the Universal History, then recently edited in 60 volumes, by a society of gentlemen in England. The original idea of extracting the quintessence of that voluminous work, which contained the most complete system of history the world had then seen, has ever since been enlarging and improving by an attentive perusal of the histories written by Robertson, Hume, Gibbon, and other modern authors—of the Asiatic researches—of the works of Sir William Jones, and other learned Orientalists—the publications of intelligent travellers, who, in the course of the last half century have explored almost every region of the Globe. These collectively have thrown a blaze of light on countries comparatively unknown, and on portions, both of ancient and modern history which were confused and obscure at the period when the writers of the Universal History published their work. The arrangement of materials collected from these sources commenced in the year 1780, when, in consequence of the surrender of Charleston to Sir Henry Clinton, the author was suddenly released from a sea of business and sent as a prisoner of war to the British Garrison then in St. Augustine, and there confined for eleven months, without any peculiar employment. Steady progress has been made for the last ten years in correcting and transcribing the work for publication.

UNITED STATES.

The History of the United States is given at full length—that of foreign countries is more or less expended or contracted in proportion to the intrinsic importance of each—its tendency to illustrate portions of Holy Writ—the Greek and Latin Classics—and also in propo-tion to its connexion with the U. States, or as furnishing useful practical information to its citizens, or as the paternal soil of their ancestors.

The above sketch of the nature and objects of this immense work, which has occupied the attention of the Author for upwards of 40 years, was found among his papers, and is now given to the public in his own words. Since that period, a few chapters have been added by the Reverend SAMUEL STANHOPE SMITH, which brings it down to the close of the last war.

The publication commences with a third impression of the History of the U-States, in three volumes, which is all that has ever appeared. The whole will not be delivered under 15 or 20 months. It is proper to state, that the gentlemen who have the direction of it are neither bookellers nor printers, and receive no pecuniary consideration for their trouble —but are willing to make the necessary advances to carry it into execution provided the sale is warranted by public patronage. The profits arising are to be appropriated for the support and education of his children, four of each sex: to them its success is a matter of deep importance.

SATURDAY, MARCH 28, 1818.

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT AT WASHINGTON.

Friday, March 27, 1818.

The debate on Mr. Clay's proposed amendment to the Annual Appropriation Bill, the object of which, by the bye, however enigmatical it may appear, is the recognition by our government of the independence of the Spanish American provinces, was yesterday continued in a committee of the whole, when Mr. Lowndes rose to deliver his sentiments upon the question, and observed that it was his persuasion, in which he believed he was joined by the speaker, that of all conditions, that of peace was the most desirable and favorable to the interests of this country; at all times of great value, it was at this time particularly our very best policy. Before the house, therefore, applied itself to any one particular measure of policy, it was their duty solicitously to inquire whether in any and in what degree it had in it a tendency to promote war. While he said this, he wished to have it understood that he would be one of the last to recommend any policy at variance, either with the honor of this nation or the rights of others.

As to the right of the people of South America to establish their independence, he said it required no proof; it was obvious and undeniable—and no less obvious and undeniable was the right of this country to go to war, or to recognize the independent sovereignty of any of those provinces: but the question was, would it be prudent? would it be sound policy? And as the constitution had deposited the power to decide upon it in the executive, nothing could be more improper than for congress to interfere; not only because that was a prerogative constitutionally lodged in the president, but because the grounds of negotiation must be best known to that branch of the government—depending as they did, not on abstract reasoning, but on matters of fact and the conduct of the parties. There, therefore, who were advocates for the measure, ought to explain the grounds upon which that house could imagine itself possessed of a knowledge of facts superior to that of the executive. For himself, he acknowledged that he did not know whether the executive had any particular knowledge about them, but as he knew, that the house had not—and he could candidly own for his own particular part that, with the exertion of much diligence in inquiry, he was able to obtain but little and that very uncertain knowledge of the situation of those provinces; as an extraordinary instance in illustration of which, he assured the house that he had not yet been able to ascertain the number of the provinces—he once had understood that they were twenty; he had also heard that they were but thirteen. And he did not know upon what presumption the house could take upon itself to interfere with the appointed duties of the executive government except on some impropriety in its conduct, of which not a single instance could be shown—for it was but a short time after their public assertion of their independence by the Spanish provinces, that an expedition was sent out by the executive to inquire into the reality of that circumstance, and the situation of that people; and this was abundant evidence that on the part of the president there existed no criminal indifference on the subject—nothing of a kind to induce the house to substitute their own imperfect information in the place of that of the executive. It was enough, Mr. Lowndes thought, that having from time to time received the report of their independence, he had done all he could to acquire a certainty of it. The speaker said that the independence of Rio de la Plata was declared in 1810—but Mr. Lowndes denied it, and said that in 1815 not one half of that province owned the supremacy of their congress—the western parts disowned it, and so far were they from being ardent, as the speaker had suggested, in pursuit and maintenance of their independence, that they resented the imposition of it, and finding that they were accused of intending to effect their independence, repelled the accusation not only in public manifestos, but with arms.—In short, they not only refused to assert their independence, but indignantly rejected it. Could such conduct as this, Mr. Lowndes asked, be considered as a valid claim to independence?

In another point of view Mr. Lowndes maintained the proposition before the house to be exceptionable. He deprecated expressing opinions in one branch of our government to influence another branch. It impaired the confidence of foreign nations in our government by holding out to them the idea that the branches of which it was composed were divided against each other, and against the executive; while, according to the constitution, the executive was the object to which foreign governments were to look for intercourse. This would be, to a certain extent, the effect of passing this proposition, which, while it would therefore be so far hurtful, could not possibly produce any benefit whatsoever to Spanish America. If the house wished to express an opinion at all upon the occasion, the only proper mode of doing it was by an express resolution. Assuredly an appropriation bill was not an act in which to incorporate it; for the principle had long been established that no question of a doubtful nature, and still less a vague opinion, ought not to be admitted into a bill of this nature.

Mr. Lowndes admitted that we had a right to recognize a government which had declared itself independent, and even to go to war about it; but he did not think that we were bound in duty, as had been said, to do either. It was not every right that ought to be exercised. By not recognizing the new government, we could not be said to do injustice; nor could it be said that we were bound by any positive claim or duty to recognize them. In case of the conquest of a country the conquerors had not, by the law of nations, a claim on other nations to be recognized as possessors of the land.—When the French took Genoa or Florence, neither they nor any others ever dreamt of its being the duty of the other sovereign powers of Europe to recognize them.

Mr. Lowndes owned that he did believe the recognition of those people's independence would not cause a declaration of war by Spain. That was a point, however, on which they could not be certain. It ought to be enough, however, to know that it was doubtful, to prevent us from doing an useless act. In like manner he did not believe that the bare recognition would incite England to declare war against us; but he thought that a war with Spain might produce a war with England, and on this point he disagreed with the speaker—England would not with tranquility see Cuba and Porto Rico in our possession. As to any political advantage from it he was not sanguine; for he could see no reason for thinking that the South Americans will be easily separated from England—facts indeed spoke against that hope, for at Venezuela the government had already made discriminations in favor of English vessels.

Mr. Robertson spoke in favor of the amendment. Gen. Samuel Smith said he had no notion of becoming the adviser of the executive authority; his duty then was as a representative, and that only would he or ought he to do. Commissioners had been sent to La Plata and Chili—that showed that the president meant to act effectually when they returned, and the house in common decency was bound to wait for that event—Should the house, then, he asked, act precipitately on their own vague misinformation and not pause till they had circumstantial intelligence to guide them? He stated facts to show that the establishment of South American Independence would materially injure the trade of the United States—that they could from Mexico send wheat and flour to market cheaper than we can from our rivers, and would rival us in all our articles of produce. Our very whaling vessels he said had at Chili got cargoes of wheat and brought them to a profitable market. Mr. Smith then gave a history of the necessary course of that trade, which showed that the precious metals would not be an advantageous article of commerce to the U. States. He then demonstrated that if there was a war between us and Spain, England would remain neutral and sweep away the whole carrying trade of the world—so that he would rather have a war with England than that England should be neutral and we at war with Spain. Our seamen would go into British ships and for many years we should not be able to recover the carrying trade.

Mr. Johnson, of Kentucky, made a speech in favor of the amendment, which displayed much genuine feeling and honorable ardor in the general cause of liberty.

The committee rose and the house adjourned.

The above is rather a parcel of disjointed fragments of Mr. Lowndes and Mr. Smith's speeches, than a transcript of the speeches themselves.

From the Savannah Republican, March 18.

IMPORTANT—If true. We are informed that a respectable farmer, who was in town yesterday, reported that an Indian runner arrived on the frontier of Tatnall county, on the 11th inst. bringing information that the savages had made an unsuccessful attempt to surprise the forces under Gen. Jackson at a place called the Hamstock, near Flint river. It was night when our army was assailed, but so well were their arms directed, that FIVE HUNDRED of the enemy were left dead on the field, and among them several whites and negroes. All the wounded were carried off, so that their exact loss could not be ascertained. Jackson is represented as having lost one hundred men in killed and wounded.

MORE INDIAN MURDERS.

The people inhabiting the southern section of this state, have so long been exposed to the tomahawk of the ruthless Indians, that we hoped before now to have heard of some measures being taken for their security; but from the following extract of a letter to a gentleman in this city, it appears that our hopes have been vain. The fault lies somewhere: it ought to be redressed. Humanity and every blander feeling implanted by nature in the human breast, as well as our laws, make it the imperious duty of those in authority to arrest this carnage, this waste of the lives of the most useful class of our citizens, by the ferocious demons of the wilderness.

"Bethel, (Glynny Co.) March 13.

Having written you two days ago, I have nothing to communicate, but the disagreeable news (which I have just received from unquestionable authority) that one hundred Indians have been seen sixteen miles from this place on the Savannah. Two or three days ago they killed a white man. The people are all moving off as quick as they can, and if some assistance be not given us, we shall be obliged to remove likewise.

Hudson, N. York, March 17.

MIRACULOUS ESCAPE.

It is but seldom that we read of a more narrow escape from apparently impending death, than will appear in the following instance: Jacob Spangberg, J. Miller and Capt. Mark Blatner, of the town of Livingston, in this county, during the late flood, while endeavoring to ward off the enormous quantities of ice which were coming down Rensselaer's kill, from the gate of the sluice of said Blatner's grist mill, the flood gave way, and Mr. Spangberg, together with the others, were thrown into the rushing current of the creek, and were precipitated down a very rocky fall of the height of nearly one hundred feet, to the utter astonishment of every one who beheld the dreadful scene. He went down amidst cakes of ice, pieces of timber, and the foam of the waters, so that the spectators immediately lost sight of him, and supposed him to be drowned or dashed in pieces. But, strange as it may appear, although at first he went to the bottom, he arose, and was carried down the rapid stream to the distance of half a mile, when happening to be driven near the shore, he caught hold of a thorn bush, by which he drew himself out of the water. Being so much bruised as to be unable to walk, he literally crept up the hill to a neighboring house, about a quarter of a mile from the creek, where he received every kind and humane attention. From thence he was carried home, to the astonishment of his distressed family, who expected never to see even his lifeless body. It is said that Mr. Spangberg had so far recovered from the bodily injury he had received, as to be able to attend to his business.

LATEST FROM HALIFAX.

To our Boston correspondent we are indebted for a file of Halifax papers to the 14th instant, inclusive. A paper of the 4th states, that on the 2d "his excellency the earl of Dalhousie gave his assent to the bill repealing the act regulating the plaster trade."

The Acadian Recorder of the 14th instant gives the following account of the unfortunate situation of the ship Alert, captain Snow, which sailed from this port with provisions and clothing for the sufferers at St. John's: "The American ship Alert, Snow, from New-York, with a cargo of provisions, &c. for the distressed inhabitants of St. John's, Newfoundland, put into Pope's Harbor on the 6th instant in distress, having sprung a leak—her sails split and torn, one man lost overboard, and another frozen. The Earl of Dalhousie, Lieutenant Stewart, sent from this port last week to afford her relief and supplies, has since returned, with information that whenever the ice broke up, the ship will proceed on her voyage."

Halifax, March 14.

By an arrival from Antigua we have been favored with the following extract: "Several seizures have been lately made at Antigua and St. Kitt's, of a very serious nature. It appears by an act of Parliament (so little regarded for a long time past, as to be considered obsolete) that an order in council was necessary to enable European ships to carry gunpowder, which they are in the habit of doing, for the purpose of committing far the powder duty in the colonies—this being neglected, five vessels have been seized at St. Kitt's and Nevis by Admiral Harvey, and one at Antigua by the Chiffers. It is supposed they will all be condemned."

Prices at Halifax, March 13.—Beef, mess, 90s; bread, ship, 3s 40s; candles, mould, 12 1/2 1s; oil, sperm, 3s 3s; flour, sup, 65s, scarce; hops 80; lard 1 1/2 1s; brick, molasses, W. 1 2 6 a 2 8; pitch 17 6 a 20; tar 13 6 a 15; rosin 22 6; turpentine 25 6; rice 3s 40; rum, W. 1 4 3 a 4 6; tobacco, fig, 2 6 a 3; do. leaf, 1 3 a 1 6; shot 50; tea, hyson, 7 8; do. sen 5 6; barley 7 6.

Gleanings from English Papers.

We are furnished by the politeness of a much respected friend with a file of English papers, containing however, intelligence not more recent than that received by the arrivals at New-York. The President's message is spoken of in very flattering terms as a luminous and able document, and what is further evidence of a conciliatory spirit, we have not found one word in the large file left in our possession, against the character of this country. The English Journalists rejoice in our prosperity, and we hope that our countrymen possess magnanimity enough to retort such civility, and to shew that we are as capable of banishing resentment as our former enemies are. Blessings in exchange for curses, we have no right to expect.—The papers have given at great length the trial of Mr. Hone, who was indicted for parodying passages from the liturgy. Mr. Hone argued his own case, and abused the counsellors, ministers, bishops, nobility, and prince regent—he was on three separate indictments acquitted of the charge, not for the defect of evidence, for on this point there was no question—he boldly justified the words and shewed by evidence that if he was guilty, Mr. Canning had been guilty, some of the bishops were equally criminal—all of whom had at some time or other employed their pens in making parodies on the sacred writings. The court again and again interrupted the prisoner by reminding him that the guilt of others afforded no justification for him. Still the popular answer was ready on the part of the prisoner—All I am guilty, who were not these dignitaries also brought to justice! After the trial, a meeting was held consisting of such friends of the people as Lord Cechane, Borden, Waltham, Wolfer, cum multis alius, who made up a large subscription for the benefit of Mr. Hone, who has also now become a paragon of the first brilliance.—Lord Cechane addressed the company, and declared that he thought the trial by jury most capital thing, and uttered many satirical compliments on its excellence. The noble Lord is evidently much better pleased with the trial by jury than he was in his own case, when he had the honor not to be acquitted, but convicted. The ministerial papers are full of invectives on the character of bishop Landell. A son of the bishop's has it seems published a volume consisting of his father's private papers, in which that prelate expresses much contempt for his brother bishops, Mr. Pitt, and the royal family. A work has been recently published containing anecdotes selected from the papers of a celebrated English statesman, now no more. During the trial of Lord Melville, this member of parliament wrote to one of his political confederates that it would be much more easy for himself and his colleagues to drive the noble Lord from office, (the object of the impeachment) if the popular clamour was set in motion. The hint was sufficient—addresses, memorials, and remonstrances, petitions, resolutions, came pouring upon the royal ear with such redundancy, that his majesty bowed to the storm, and Lord Melville was compelled to resign. The key to all this political intrigue is found here. This correspondent of this celebrated statesman informs that all these papers were the work of one hand—that having written a petition for the removal of lord Melville, he varied the phrasology a little and made the same ideas assume the shape of a remonstrance—this was again altered and it wore the appearance of an address from a corporate body—this undergoes another alteration, and it now pops upon us in a formidable string of patriotic resolutions—the style is altered again, and these resolutions are now changed into a memorial—these addresses, memorials, petitions, and remonstrances are then distributed abroad, and each one decorated with a long and formidable list of signatures before they take in the province of agitated majesty. How little did the king, the members of the house of parliament, how little did Lord Melville himself think that all this formidable apparatus was created by a needy scribbler at his writing desk who was working his wages without any more personal animosity against Lord Melville than he felt against the ashes of Alexander the Great. The London papers denounce the letter of the Emperor Alexander to the Duke of Wellington, recently published, as a ruse de guerre. They do not say what authority they have for this statement; but one thing is very plain, whether genuine or counterfeit no one has yet been able to understand it.

SENATE WAS.

The following message was received from the President of the United States: To the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States.

I now lay before congress all the information in the possession of the Executive, respecting the war with the Seminole, and the measures which it has been thought proper to adopt, for the safety of our fellow citizens, on the frontier exposed to their ravages. The enclosed documents shew that the hostilities of this tribe were unprovoked, the offspring of a spirit, long cherished and often manifested towards the United States, and that, in the present instance, it was extending itself to other tribes, and daily assuming a more serious aspect. As soon as the nature and object of this combination were perceived, the Major General, commanding the Southern division of the troops of the United States, was ordered to the theatre of action, charged with the management of the war, and vested with the powers necessary to give it effect. The season of the year being unfavorable to active operations, and the recesses of the country affording shelter to these savages, in case of retreat, may prevent a prompt termination of the war, but it may be fairly presumed, that it will not be long before this tribe and its associates receive the punishment which they have provoked and justly merited.

As almost the whole of this tribe inhabits the country within the limits of Florida, Spain was bound, by the treaty of 1795, to restrain them from committing hostilities against the United States. We have seen, with regret, that her government has altogether failed to fulfill this obligation, nor are we aware that it made any effort to that effect. When we consider her utter inability to check, even in the slightest degree, the movements of this tribe, by her very small and incompetent force, in Florida, we are not disposed to ascribe the failure to any other cause. The inability however of Spain to maintain her authority over the territory and Indians, within her limits, and in consequence to fulfill the treaty, ought not to expose the United States to other and greater injuries. Where the authority of Spain ceases to exist, there the United States have a right to pursue their enemy, on a principle of self defence. In this instance, the right is more complete and obvious, because we shall perform only what Spain was bound to have performed herself. To the high obligations and privileges of this great and sacred right of self defence, will the movement of our troops be strictly confined. Orders have been given to the general in command not to enter Florida, unless it be in pursuit of the enemy, and in that case to respect the Spanish authority wherever it is maintained and he will be instructed to withdraw his forces from the province, as soon as he shall have reduced that tribe to order and secured our fellow citizens in that quarter, by satisfactory arrangements, against its unprovoked and savage hostilities in future.

JAMES MONROE.

Washington, March 25.

Another message was received from the president of the United States, in compliance with the resolution of this House of the 10th December last, transmitting a copy of the Documents which it is thought proper to communicate relating to the independence and condition of the Spanish provinces of South America.

Another message was also received from the president, in conformity to a resolution of the House of Representatives, transmitting a statement of the items of expenditure by the commissioners under certain articles of the treaty of Ghent.

These several Messages with the accompanying Documents were ordered to lie on the table, and be printed—and The House adjourned at a late hour.

Alex's Common Council.

MARCH 26, 1818.

Nathaniel S. Wise, the member elect from the third ward in the place of G. O. Thapale, resigned, appeared, and after being qualified took his seat.

The Council went into a committee of the whole, Mr. Morgan in the chair, when the act entitled "An act to amend an act enacted an act to establish a which, by laying a tax for paying the same, was read and amended. The act, as amended, was read a third time, and the amendments concurred in by the Council, and passed.

Ordered, That the superintendent of police be and he is hereby directed to cause that part of the county wharf which was injured by the late gale of wind to be immediately repaired, and charge the expense to the general fund.

Resolved, That Messrs. Lee and Morgan be a committee to enquire whether any and what amendments are necessary in the law relating to the exhibition of plays, shows, or other public exhibition, and that the said committee have leave to report by bill or otherwise.

The committee to whom the subject was referred, reported a bill for the inspection of fish, beef and pork, which was read a first time and laid on the table.

Ordered, That Messrs. Smith and Grid be a committee to examine into the state of the powder house, and report the same to Council.

Mr. Morgan asked for and obtained leave to bring in a bill for issuing durable bills, which was read a first time and laid on the table.

The committee appointed to bring in a bill to amend the charter of the town reported the same, which was read and laid on the table.

On balloting for a board of health, the following persons were duly elected:

Country merchants can be supplied with the above articles by wholesale on the most reasonable terms, and parties with all kinds of cake at one day's notice. ALSO, These celebrated bitters are composed purely of vegetables of the most innocent, yet specific virtues, and are infinitely superior to any thing yet discovered, for restoring weak and decayed constitutions, strengthening the stomach, increasing the appetite, and by the frequent use of them, they are a certain preventive against those complaints so common in the spring and fall seasons, such as intermittent fevers, and agues, long Autumnal fevers, dysenteries, &c. They are also of infinite service to those in the declining line, who make long voyages at sea, and are exposed to unhealthy climates; a preventive against contagious disorders—they are also a very pleasant bitter and are particularly recommended for the use of Taverns and Public houses, as well as private families. Land for Sale.

THE subscriber offers for sale a tract of 80 acres of land, on the Colchester road, five miles from Alexandria, adjoining the lands of Haywood Foote and Dennis Johnston. The greater part of this tract is fine meadow land, abundantly supplied with water. Also one other tract of 261 acres, on the Ragensworth road, about 6 miles from Alexandria, and one mile from the first mentioned tract, adjoining land of Thos. Janney and Mr. M'Pherson: the greater part of this tract is in wood, the soil good and highly susceptible of improvement from the use of plaster. If these lands are not sold before the first of January next, they will then be for rent.

CHARLES SIMMS.

Land for Sale.

THE Subscriber offers for sale, about 2000 acres of land in Fairfax county, not more than from seven to nine miles from Alexandria. The property is well watered, has a sufficiency of wood, and (judging from the condition of small and well cultivated farms that adjoin it) it is highly susceptible of improvement.—It is at present divided into tenements, of from one to two hundred acres, each provided with a dwelling house, out houses, a garden and orchard; and might, of course, be laid off into four or five very compact farms. The principal object of the subscriber, being the introduction of a good system of husbandry into his neighbourhood, he will sell on very moderate terms, give a long credit on the whole amount of the purchase money, and require no other interest, than what the present rent of the land pays, being about 3 per cent. on its estimated value.

Valuable Family Medicines.

JUST received, direct from the proprietors, the following valuable MEDICINES, all of which have been in use for a number of years past, in almost every part of the United States; have been highly patronized by people of the first respectability; and approved by those who have had occasion to make use of them, for the cure of those disorders for which they are severally calculated.

Dr. Lee's Genuine (Windham) Bilious Pills.

Universally known and used throughout the United States as a family medicine. The time of these pills has become so great, that many have attempted to counterfeit them—to guard against this the proprietors have procured a stereotype label, and each box of Genuine Lee's Pills will hereafter be enclosed in
